/ the occurrence and development of events by chance in a happy or beneficial way.

DEAR FRIENDS,

San Francisco is alive with connections - new technologies and innovative apps, enterprising professionals and nightly events, women entrepreneurs and abundant opportunity. That's why I set out to build a networking platform to make the most of our thriving collective.

We've made tens of thousands of introductions since our launch in February 2017. We've helped women get funding for their startups, we've connected women with their dream jobs, and we've sparked lasting friendships. Not to mention the champagne, chocolates, and serendipity!

Even after all this, we wanted more. Everywhere you turn in San Francisco, people are trying new things and turning old business models upside down and inside out. So, one day we brainstormed without limits. We challenged ourselves to explore what a conference would look like that we'd be dying to attend; we came up with a whole new model.

This digital magazine celebrates the collective efforts of all of us who pulled hard to make SERENDIPITY happen. You'll see the inspiration of the 60 speakers who hosted sessions at this year's location - the General's Residence.

You'll learn about the sponsors who elevated the event to the highest caliber. Last but not least, you'll find yourselves here: the enterprising attendees who came to learn, connect and inspire each other, and transformed SERENDIPITY into a success.

Please enjoy this collection of SERENDIPITY's best moments, along with special discounts and perks from our partners.

Storyboxart

Alpana Aras-King is a masterful storyteller, art director, and photographer based in the San Francisco Bay Area. In 2006, she left a successful corporate job to open Storyboxart, a private portrait studio.

A creative visionary, Alpana's work has included heirloom photography for families, marketing and promotional imagery for non-profits, and personal projects on the streets of three continents. Her work has been commissioned by the New York Times, Financial Times, Ozy Magazine and displayed internationally with companies such as Apple Inc.

As an immigrant and person of color, Alpana is passionate about turning her lens on issues of diversity through her personal and professional photography. Her work with the Everyday Bay Area collective, has drawn attention to the untold stories of people on the margins, humanizing those that look different to create acceptance and social change.

Rock Juice

Melissa wants you to drink real wine everyday. She's a certified Advanced Sommelier who founded Rock Juice, a natural wine discovery service. She's also a mom of two young boys, whose appearance in the world inspired her to think about the ingredients in everything. And ultimately led her to natural wines, and the idea to make them more accessible. Because wine is one of life's great pleasures, and we shouldn't have to give that up. Know what's in your glass, and stick to the good stuff, made by real people (not big corporations), without chemicals, additives and other weird stuff.

Rock Juice, a discovery service for natural wine. Each month we curate a unique selection of hard-to-find, small production wines from organic and bio dynamic farming, made the old-fashioned way - with wild yeast, low to no sulfur, and no additives. Because, with no ingredient labeling on wine, its hard to know what's in a bottle and what you're putting in your body.

I also loved the variety of content – all grounded in a triple threat combo: practical tips, mindful/soul connection and inspiration. This was one the best conferences I've been to – with more exciting future connections and more inspiration than most conferences I've attended.

Laëtitia Aguesse

is a French Mom and French Pastry Chef and founder of Maison Bertille.

Previously a midwife in Paris, I now live with my family in San Francisco. In my suitcases, I brought my sweet-tooth and an unconditional passion for fresh, colorful and high quality ingredients! Thanks to my little girl Bertille, who gave me the time - between naps - to reinvent myself!

Maison Bertille

In my pastries you will only find quality ingredients, harvested from my own garden, and a few flowers if you like. All with a dash of French touch, of course.

Every order is unique for Maison Bertille. Our mission is to serve you with the best of our talent, creativity, and sweetness. For a business event, a baby shower, an important party or just for the pleasure we design the best menu, cook with love and fresh products and deliver our unique pieces to you.
